

STOCKLAND PARK IN PLANNING MODE

MODE DESIGN was engaged by Quad Park Corporation to establish a short-term masterplan of Stockland Park in Kawana. Through a consultation process with the client, MODE DESIGN has established managed growth potential through additional space in new building projects, with the potential for consolidation, renovation, expansion and provision of new buildings.

The plan incorporated infrastructure to unlock and maximise the immediate potential of the site, including personal activity stations, walking/jogging circuits, barbecue areas and passive activity areas for family and group gatherings.

Wider connections to the community and interaction with public zones outside the site were proposed, providing welcoming entry points around the site and ways of finding limited pedestrian/vehicle crossovers and additional onsite parking. ■

An artist's impression of what Stockland Park could look like (draft and yet to be approved).